OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

We pride ourselves on being the most accommodating house in the city.

Mrs. JAY GOULD died at her home in New York City last Sunday. Jay's millions could not buy her health.

Dr. GREENON, of Little Falls, the collector of customs of the district of Minnesota, fell dead in his office at St. Paul on Tuesday. Heart disease was the cause.

HENRY GEORGE delivered a lecture before the Minnesota legislature on Wednesday evening, on his single tax theory. This theory seems to be gaining ground very rapidly in this state.

The conference committee of the house and senate, on the bill creating a secretary of agriculture, came to an agreement on Monday, and unless Grover vetoes the bill, Harrison will have eight cabinet officers to appoint.

A GREAT deal of interesting and entertaining reading matter can be found in our inside pages. A brief summary of the work of the legislature and also of congress can be found, besides an extended account of the great cyclone in Pennsylvania last week, and other interesting news matter. They also contain a great deal of interesting literary matter.

The presidential electors of the several states of the union met on Monday last, and cast their votes for president and vice-president, and, as many too sanguine democrats who put up their money on Grover too well know, a majority of the votes were cast for Ben. H. Harrison, of Indiana, and Levi P. Morton, of New York.

The Journal is authority for the statement that Judge Donaldson will start a Democratic paper in the spring. As Mr. Donaldson is an experienced journalist and a man of more than ordinary ability, he will undoubtedly issue an exceptionally bright sheet editorially, and will without a doubt, make his paper the leading democratic paper of this upper country in a very short time.

Lost $8,000.

The following item from the Duluth Tribune may be of interest to some of our readers:

About two years ago a very bright and enterprising newspaper appeared at Brainerd, published and edited by A. Dewey. The expense of publishing a daily newspaper of the size and spirit of the News was much too large for that country, but Mr. Dewey, with his well known courage and industry kept at the front and it became the most influential among the state newspapers in its support of the re-organization of Governor McGill. The fire that swept off two blocks of that city included the building in which the News was located and Marler, Luse & Co., who held a claim against the plant, asked for immediate payment. To relieve himself of this Mr. Dewey sold out the plant to a syndicate of democrats in Duluth, and it was removed to this city, and established with A. M. Miller, Jr., in the editorial chair, with Mr. Dewey at the head of the mechanical department. The adventure proved a losing concern, and the daily closed its brief career in November, and yesterday the interest controlled by Dewey was turned over to the mortgagee. Mr. Dewey was induced to go into the Brainerd experiment by C. F. Kindred, and loses about $8,000 in the entire deal.

Representative Fleming Interviewed.

To a Globe reporter Hon. W. A. Fleming has the following to say concerning his and Crow Wing county's position in the senatorial fight:

Mr. Odell interviewed some Democrats and Republicans, good citizens, but not particularly active in politics; and by certain misrepresentations, such as Sabins was out of the field. Washburn away ahead, etc., secured a few names. He visited the railroad shops and secured about twenty names. As soon as Senator Sabins' friends heard of his presence they prepared an open letter soliciting the legislators from Brainerd to support Mr. Sabins. To this letter 441 names of the most prominent and influential citizens of Brainerd were attached with the following: A large number of those who signed the Washburn letters, not understanding what they were, came and signed this Sabins letter, or personally addressed letters to me, expressing regret that they had not signed the Sabins letter. For six years Mr. Washburn represented Brainerd in congress, and during that time his personal interests needing important legislation suffered. He never exerted himself to help the poor people in the creation of a few dams, and they were designed to benefit him. And at the present time he is to return to Washington his labors would be directly against the interests of Brainerd and Northern Minnesota.

His connection with the Soo road, his interests in Minneapolis, all make him the natural enemy of our section of the country, and the Brainerd people know it. Another thing the Twin Cities practically control, at the present time, nearly every political gift that can come from the people. This senatorship is all that is left, and Brainerd feels that it is but fair that it remains with the county. Senator Sabins has in all matters attended promptly to all proved of him by Brainerd. Particularly in the securing of pensions for old soldiers he has done invaluable work. Legislation necessary to the benefit of our locality has never been neglected by him, and we think it but fair to return him. One of the funny things of the Washburn programme is their promise to Brainerd that if she will support the general, he will have the land office at St. Cloud removed to Brainerd. They boasted that they will bring $20,000 a year to us. We don't want it. What is a land office to our Northern Pacific shops which disburse $1,200,000 annually? No put us down for Sabins first and last because of what he is, because of what he has done and because of what we know he will do if he is re-elected.

WASHBURN WINS.

He is Nominated by a Caucus of Republicans Legislators Last Night.

Hon. W. D. Washburn of Minneapolis was nominated at a caucus of the Republican members of the legislature for United States senator last night, which is equivalent to an election. This ends, probably, one of the most hotly contested political battles in the history of Minnesota. While the result may not be satisfactory to all, everybody will certainly be glad that it is over, as it was almost impossible to transact any business while the fight was in progress. There were three formal ballots taken in the caucus, Mr. Washburn being nominated on the third ballot. The first ballot showed Washburn in the lead, he having 58 votes, Mr. Sabins 46, Donnelly 15, and scattering 11. The second ballot Mr. Washburn lost two votes and Mr. Sabins gained nine. This fairly set the Sabins men wild, as they now considered his nomination certain. The next ballot however ended disastrously for them as Mr. Washburn gained six votes, enough to elect, and Mr. Sabins lost one. When the result was announced a scene of indescribable confusion ensued, and it was some time before Senator Buckman, who arose to move that the nomination be made unanimous, could be heard. The motion was carried, after which Mr. Washburn made a speech thanking the members for the honor conferred. Mr. Sabins also spoke, gracefully acquiescing in the election of the convention, and saying that he was too good a republican and too much of a man not to ratify the choice the convention had made.

At Washburn's Expense.

St. Paul, Jan. 16, 1889.

Brainerd was represented at the Merchants, in St. Paul, on Tuesday by a delegation whose expenses were defrayed by W. D. Washburn, an aspirant for U. S. senator. It seems that the gentleman desired to let the people know he had some friends in the City of the Pines, and accordingly he telegraphed C. H. Douglas to bring down a goodly crowd at his expense. The Brainerd boys know a good thing when they see it, and it did not take long to scare up forty who were willing to make a trip at the general's expense, democrats not being barred. The following is a partial list of those who accepted the invitation: Fred Aber, Frank Osborn, Chas. Baker, Johnny Benon, C. Cross, H. Rosenblatt, Tom Sanborn, T. M. Reilly, J. Smith, John Murray, Jake Paine, Chas. Kinkade, John Bubar, Tom Reilly, Robt. Canby, Jerome Kelleher, C. H. Douglas, G. H. Stratton, M. Cullen, Hugh Riddle, Ed. Mahan, C. E. Cole, J. M. Gray, Ed. Hawkins, Jas. Cullen, Max Shapiro and T. J. Hawkins. The boys enjoyed themselves hugely, but a number were at a loss to understand where Mr. Washburn was to get his money back until they were asked to accompany at room 2, and Representative R. C. Dunn was sent for. They then began to understand that they were expected to bear down on Mr. Dunn in Mr. Washburn's interest. The "bearing down" was done all right, but whether Mr. Dunn was convinced that the republican sentiment of Crow Wing county was voiced by the assemblage remains to be seen, at least he made no promises. It is stated that several of the democratic brothers who accompanied the delegation, were convinced after their conference with the representative, that they were Sabins men after all.

Probable Changes in the N. P.

Last Saturday's Pioneer Press contains the following concerning probable changes by the N. P. Company:

The resignation of Assistant General Manager Buckley, of the Northern Pacific, will in all probability be followed by important changes all along the line; changes, however, more of title than anything else. It is understood that the unusual and rather awkward arrangement of officiating the line will be transformed into a more common and more systematic state of things. Heretofore there have been three assistant general managers (the third being created last year) with equal rank, each having charge of a grand division of the road and each reporting to the general manager. Mr. Buckley's retirement affords an opportunity to change all this, and the office of assistant general manager will be abolished. Mr. Ainsley, who has had charge of the eastern grand division, will be made general superintendent and his jurisdiction extended over the whole line. Mr. Root, now assistant general manager of the middle division with headquarters at Helena, will be given the title of assistant general superintendent, although his duties will not differ materially from what they are now. The office of assistant general superintendent of the Pacific division will probably be left vacant for the present, Vice President Prescott of Tacoma, looking after that end. The plan simply abolishes the office of assistant general manager, and creates that of general superintendent and two assistants, titles that more nearly represent the duties performed. The change will give Mr. Ainsley entire charge of road and transportation. It is understood that these changes will go into effect about Jan. 20, although nothing has been officially announced, and even Mr. Ainsley's new title has not been definitely determined. The change has long been thought desirable by nearly all the officers of the operating department, and will promote uniformity and harmony all along the line.

Interesting to Hunters.

The following communication appears in the Fergus Falls Journal and is well worth reading. "To any man of ordinary observation, who has been hunting deer in northern Minnesota for the last few years, it must be apparent that the days of this noble game is about numbered in Minnesota. If the present practice prevails it is very doubtful if there will be a wild deer alive within the borders of our state in three years. They are hunted, snared, trapped and destroyed in almost every way possible along our whole northern forest frontier the year round. Venison is openly bought and sold through the summer and early fall in nearly all the local markets on the Northern Pacific and St. Paul & Duluth roads, by both white men and Indians. The favorite method of the latter in the summer is to kill the deer by "fire-hunting"—two Indians have been known to kill as many as twelve in a single night. At Maple Ridge in Isanti county, in an area of about three square miles, 163 deer were known to have been killed last February and March by men and boys on snow shoes. One young savage only 15 years old distinguished himself by cutting the throats of nine on a single day. Guns were of no use, for the deer were so poor and spiritless and the snow so deep that a person could walk right up to them and the poor animal would stand and bleat piteously as they were torn by dogs or beaten by clubs. Hundreds were destroyed in the northern part of Wadena county in the same season and by the same means, and it would seem that about the only object to kill them for was to gratify a depraved bloodthirsty spirit of destruction.

It is time, and high time, that the civilized and law-abiding sentiment of this state called a halt to this unsportsman-like and disgraceful slaughter. It is time that the citizen in our most lonely backwoods frontier should be made to feel that he is not "west of the law" (he is ready enough to revoke its protection when needed); he should be made to understand that there are two sides to his compact with society. Somehow the impression has got abroad among a great many that this state cannot constitutionally enforce any laws for the protection of its game. Our present game wardens seem to be imbued with this idea, for although the game law is defied or ignored before their eyes, we have no account of their attempting to enforce it in the slightest degree; in fact in some of the counties people say that the wardens themselves are guilty of gross infraction of the law. At the last session of our legislature it was said that the sportsmen of the state—notably the Brainerd club—were active in procuring legislation for the further protection of the game. Would it not be consistent if some activity were shown in enforcing those laws? Under the present administration they are worse than useless. While it is not intended to supply an unfailing remedy to these evils, perhaps a few suggestions may not be out of place:

First—Confine the Indian on his reservation, as off of it he is only a prowling beggar and an unmitigated nuisance. This is the universal testimony of the settler. Hitherto the efforts of the philanthropists to this end have been defeated by a few traders and squaw-men who want an opportunity to buy the Indians' berries and sell them whiskey.

Second—Stop "pot hunting," or hunting for the market. Limit each man or household to the killing of deer in a season. The good results following the enforcement of this might warrant in a few years the enlargement of this number. In Maine, where they have had such a law in operation and enforced, it has resulted in such an increase of the deer that now they are said to be more plenty there than they were 25 years ago. They were almost annihilated when the state took hold of the matter in earnest. Above all, appoint for game wardens only those who are in sympathy with the methods of civilization, who have the desire and the courage to see that the law is strictly enforced; who are not afraid to go or send their deputies through the forest and find out what is going on. Make the office lucrative enough to fairly reward honest and efficient discharge of duty. This trading expense would surely be borne cheerfully by all good citizens rather than see good laws dishonored and the state disgraced.

Let us hope that Governor-elect Merriam, with that energy and executive ability which his friends claim for him, will bestow a little attention to this matter and revolutionize the present state of affairs. In the northeast portion of the state is an immense forest covered area, capable of furnishing food and shelter for innumerable deer, moose, caribou and other game. The forbidding and sterile nature of the soil renders it impossible for the settler ever to make a permanent home in its fastnesses. The plain duty of the state is to exercise a little intelligent care over it and to suppress this invidious and barbarous slaughter.

The office of Chas. S. Hazen, at the N. P. Refrigerator buildings, will be open every evening from 7:30 to 9 p. m. CHAS. S. HAZEN, Fuel Agent.

Minneapolis and St. Paul now have both United States senators.

Memorial.

Castle Hall, White Cross Lodge No. 30, K. of P.

Brainerd, Jan. 8th, 1889.

Brother Knights: Again has death entered our castle hall and laid his cruel hands upon another of our beloved Knights. Just when the old year had risen up to lay aside his mantle and welcome in the new year, the dread messenger came and called from us forever our honored brother, Chauncey B. Sleeper, and we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well. Our brother has gone, but his memory lives. He had many virtues, let us remember and cherish them. In the death of brother Sleeper this lodge and the order universal have lost an honored member, the city and commonwealth an esteemed citizen, the bar an able and conscientious lawyer, the judiciary an honest, upright and fearless judge, and the family a respected and loving husband and father. As a lodge, let us be reminded by this sad visitation that we too are but mortal and must soon follow in the footsteps of our beloved brother. May we all be ready when the summons comes.

To the family of the deceased brother this lodge extends its sincerest sympathy in the hour of their great affliction. May an unfaltering trust in God and a risen Christ, and the hope of the resurrection be their comfort and support.

The Master at Arms will see that this Castle Hall is appropriately draped, and the Keeper of Records and Seals will spread this memorial upon the records of the lodge, and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased brother, and also copies to the city press.

BOLD BURGLARS

Visit Three Brainerd Hotels and Secure About $100 in Money and Articles of Value.

On Tuesday night rooms in the Commercial, the National and the Central House were entered by burglars and quite considerable booty secured. The thief is supposed to be a man who came in on a late train Tuesday night and registered at the Commercial as J. L. Scott, of Helena, Mont. He was shown to a room and retired for the night. At about two o'clock it is supposed he left his room, and going to the room occupied by Chief of Police Caffrey, he effected an entrance by climbing up to the transom, which was partly open, and with a stick pushed back the bolt that secured the door. He entered the room so stealthily as not to awaken the officer who was in bed asleep, and took from the pockets of his clothes $46 in money and a gold watch and a revolver. He next tried the room in which was Dispatcher Bruce, but he did not succeed in getting into this room. The next room was occupied by a man by the name of Miller, from whose clothes he succeeded in extracting $27 in money, after which it is supposed he left the Commercial to try his luck elsewhere.

At about four o'clock the bar room of the Central House was entered and all the money in the drawer taken, the amount being some where between fifteen and twenty dollars. As there was nothing to do at this time, the bar-tender had fallen asleep, and when he awoke he found the drawer had been robbed. As there were three or four watches laying close by on a shelf, it is supposed that the thief was frightened away by footsteps on the outside before he had time to secure them. It is presumed that this stealing was done by the same man after he left the Commercial. On Wednesday morning it was also found that a room in the National hotel had been entered and a suit of clothes worth $40, owned by a man by the name of Redding, had been stolen. At what time this stealing was done it is not known, but it was probably not done by the man Scott as he could have taken several good suits at the Commercial had he chosen to do so. Chief Caffrey awoke at about 6 o'clock and on discovering that he had been robbed, immediately gave the alarm and began search for the man, but when he went to Scott's room it was found vacant. The police watched all the trains and were on the lookout all the next day, but no clue to the whereabouts of the thief has been discovered. As he has not left the city on any of the trains it is thought probable that he is in hiding in the city.

Charity Ball.

A meeting of the Woman's Relief Corp was held at the mayor's office Wednesday night, at which it was decided to hold a Charity ball at the Armory on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 14th. A committee of arrangements was appointed, and comprises the following gentlemen: Dr. Hemstead, Dr. Groves, Wallace Bain, Geo. D. LeBar, J. J. Howe, Jr., and Joe Cohen. It was decided to charge an admission fee of $1.00 per couple, and 50 cents for additional ladies. As the name of the ball indicates, the funds raised in this way will be used for charitable purposes, the Woman's Relief Corp having charge of its distribution. This organization has done a great deal of good in the past in relieving the poor and needy, therefore it is the duty of every citizen to encourage these women in their noble work by purchasing a ticket, whether he expects to attend or not. A handsome sum ought, and we predict, will be realized.

Literary and Musical Entertainment.

A fine literary and musical entertainment will be given at the opera house on Tuesday evening, Jan. 23rd, under the auspices of the East Brainerd Literary Society. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used to establish a building fund, with a view of rebuilding the East Brainerd Congregational church some time in the near future, the present building being entirely too small. As the entertainment will be one of great merit, and the project for which the money is being raised is certainly a commendable one, it is the duty of all of our citizens to encourage the members of the Literary Society in their work, by purchasing a ticket and being present. The following is the programme:

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

We pride ourselves on being the most accommodating house in the city.

Mrs. Jay Gould died at her home in New York City last Sunday. Jay's millions could not buy her health.

Dr. GERRON, of Little Falls, the collector of customs of the district of Minnesota, fell dead in his office at St. Paul on Tuesday. Heart disease was the cause.

HENRY GEORGE delivered a lecture before the Minnesota legislature on Wednesday evening, on his single tax theory. This theory seems to be gaining ground very rapidly in this state.

The conference committee of the house and senate, on the bill creating a secretary of agriculture, came to an agreement on Monday, and unless Grover vetoes the bill, Harrison will have eight cabinet officers to appoint.

A GREAT deal of interesting and entertaining reading matter can be found in our inside pages. A brief summary of the work of the legislature and also of congress can be found, besides an extended account of the great cyclone in Pennsylvania last week, and other interesting news matter. They also contain a great deal of interesting literary matter.

The presidential electors of the several states of the union met on Monday last, and cast their votes for president and vice-president, and, as many too sanguine democrats who put up their money on Grover to well know, a majority of the votes were cast for Ben. H. Harrison, of Indiana, and Levi P. Morton, of New York.

The Journal is authority for the statement that Judge Donaldson will start a Democratic paper in the spring. As Mr. Donaldson is an experienced journalist and a man of more than ordinary ability, he will undoubtedly issue an exceptionally bright sheet editorially, and will without a doubt, make his paper the leading democratic paper of this upper country in a very short time.

Lost $8,000.

The following item from the Duluth Tribune may be of interest to some of our readers:

About two years ago a very bright and enterprising newspaper appeared at Brainerd, published and edited by A. Dewey. The expense of publishing a daily newspaper of the size and spirit of the News was much too large for that community, but Mr. Dewey with his well known courage and industry kept at the front and it became the most influential among the state newspapers in its support of the re-nomination of Governor McGill. The fire that swept off two blocks of that city included the building in which the News was located and it became the property of the late J. C. Kin-dred, and the daily closed its brief career in November, and yesterday the interest controlled by Dewey was turned over to the mortgagee. Mr. Dewey was induced to go into the Brainerd experiment by G. F. Kin-dred, and loses about $8,000 in the entire deal.

Representative Fleming Interviewed. To a Globe reporter Hon. W. A. Fleming has the following to say concerning his and Crow Wing county's position in the senatorial fight:

Mr. Odell interviewed some Democrats and Republicans, good citizens, but not particularly active in politics, and by certain misrepresentations, such as Sabin was out of the field, Washburn away ahead, etc., secured a few names. He visited the railroad shops and obtained the names of twenty names. As soon as Senator Sabin's friends heard of his presence they prepared an open letter soliciting the legislators from Brainerd to support Mr. Sabin.

The names of the most prominent and influential citizens of Brainerd were attached without solicitation. A large number of those who signed the Washburn letters, in understanding what they were, came and signed this Sabin letter, or personally addressed letters to me, expressing regret that they had been deceived, and assuring me of their cordial support of Senator Sabin. I can truly say, that from the letters in my possession, that nearly every signer of the Washburn papers has forwarded me a retraction or signed the open Sabin letter. For six years I can truly say, that from the letters in my possession, that nearly every signer of the Washburn papers has forwarded me a retraction or signed the open Sabin letter.

Probable Changes on the N. P. Last Saturday's Pioneer Press contains the following concerning probable changes by the N. P. Company: The resignation of Assistant General Manager Buckley, of the Northern Pacific, will in all probability be followed by important changes all along the line; changes, however, more of title than anything else. It is understood that the unusual and rather awkward arrangement of officiating the line will be transformed into a more common and more systematic state of things. Hereafter there have been three assistant general managers (the third being created last year) with equal rank, each having charge of a grand division of the road and each reporting to the general manager. Mr. Buckley's retirement affords an opportunity to change all this, and the office of assistant general manager will be abolished. Mr. Ainsley, who has had charge of the eastern grand division, will be made general superintendent and his jurisdiction extended over the whole line. Mr. Root, now assistant general manager of the middle division with headquarters at Helena, will be given the title of assistant general superintendent, although his duties will not differ materially from what they are now. The office of assistant general superintendent of the Pacific division will probably be left vacant for the present. Vice President Prescott of Tacoma, looking after that end. The plan simply abolishes the office of assistant general manager, and creates that of general superintendent and two assistants, titles that more nearly represent the duties performed. The change will give Mr. Ainsley entire charge of road and transportation. It is understood that these changes will go into effect about Jan. 30, although nothing has been officially announced, and even Mr. Ainsley's new title has not been definitely determined. The change has long been thought desirable by nearly all the officers of the operating department, and will promote uniformity and harmony all along the line.

WASHBURN WINS.

He is Nominated by a Caucus of Republicans Legislators Last Night.

Hon. W. D. Washburn of Minneapolis was nominated at a caucus of the Republican members of the legislature for United States senator last night, which is equivalent to an election. This ends, probably, one of the most hotly contested political battles in the history of Minnesota. While the result may not be satisfactory to all, everybody will certainly be glad that it is over, as it was almost impossible to transact any business while the fight was in progress. There were three formal ballots taken in the caucus, Mr. Washburn being nominated on the third ballot. The first ballot showed Washburn in the lead, he having 58 votes, Mr. Sabin 46, Donnelly 15, and scattering 11. The second ballot Mr. Washburn lost two votes and Mr. Sabin gained nine. This fairly set the Sabin men wild, as they now considered his nomination certain. The next ballot however ended disastrously for them as Mr. Washburn gained six votes, enough to elect, and Mr. Sabin lost one. When the result was announced a scene of undisciplined confusion ensued, and it was some time before Senator Buckman, who arose to move that the nomination be made unanimous, could be heard. The motion was carried, after which Mr. Washburn made a speech thanking the members for the honor conferred. Mr. Sabin also spoke, gracefully acquiescing in the action of the convention, and saying that he was too good a republican and too much of a man not to ratify the choice the convention had made.

At Washburn's Expense.

St. Paul, Jan. 16, 1889. Brainerd was represented at the Merchants, in St. Paul, on Tuesday by a delegation whose expenses were defrayed by W. D. Washburn, an aspirant for U. S. senator. It seems that the gentleman desired to let the people know he had some friends in the City of the Pines, and accordingly he telegraphed C. H. Douglas to bring down a goodly crowd at his expense. The Brainerd boys know a good thing when they see it, and it did not take long to secure up forty who were willing to make a trip at the general's expense, democrats not being barred. The following is a partial list of those who accepted the invitation: Fred Abner, Frank Osborn, Chas. Baker, John Bean, C. Cross, H. Rosenblatt, Tom Sanborn, T. M. Reilly, J. Smith, John Murray, Jake Paine, Chas. Kinkade, John Bubar, Tom Reilly, Robt. Canighe, Jerome Kelleher, C. H. Douglas, G. H. Stratton, M. Cullen, Hugh Riddle, Ed. Mahan, C. E. Cole, J. M. Gray, Ed. Mahan, Jas. Cullen, Max Shapiro and T. J. Hawkins. The boys enjoyed themselves hugely, but a number were at a loss to understand where Mr. Washburn was to get his money back until they were asked to assemble at room 2, and Representative R. G. Dunn was sent for. They then began to understand that they were expected to hear down on Mr. Dunn in Mr. Washburn's interest. The bearing down was done all right, but whether Mr. Dunn was convinced that the republican sentiment of Crow Wing county was won by the assemblage remains to be seen, at least he made no promises. It is stated that several of the democratic brethren who accompanied the delegation, were convinced after their conference with the representative, that they were Sabin men after all.

Second Stop "pot hunting," or hunting for the market. Limit each man or household to the killing of deer in a season. The good results following the enforcement of this might warrant in a few years the enlargement of this number. In Maine, where they have had such a law in operation and enforced, it has resulted in such an increase of the deer that now they are said to be more plenty there than they were 25 years ago. They were almost annihilated when the state took hold of the matter in earnest. Above all, appoint for game warden only those who are in sympathy with the methods of civilization, who have the desire and the courage to see that the law is strictly enforced; who are not afraid to go and send their deputies through the forest and find out what is going on. Make the office lucrative enough to fairly reward honest and efficient discharge of duty. This trifling expense would surely be borne cheerfully by all good citizens rather than see good laws dishonored and the state disgraced.

Let us hope that Governor-elect Merriam, with that energy and executive ability which his friends claim for him, will bestow a little attention to this matter and revolutionize the present state of affairs. In the northeast portion of the state is an immense forest covered area, capable of furnishing food and shelter for innumerable deer, moose, caribou and other game. The forbidding and sterile nature of the soil renders it impossible for the settler ever to make a permanent home in its fastnesses. The plain duty of the state is to exercise a little intelligent care over it and to suppress this ever-provident and barbarous slaughter.

The office of Chas. S. Hazen, at the N. P. Refrigerator buildings, will be open every evening from 7:30 to 9 p. m. CHAS. S. HAZEN, Fuel Agent. Minneapolis and St. Paul now have both United States senators.

Interesting to Hunters.

The following communication appears in the Fergus Falls Journal and is well worth reading. "To any man of ordinary observation, who has been hunting deer in northern Minnesota for the last few years, it must be apparent that the days of this noble game is about numbered in Minnesota. If the present practice prevails it is very doubtful if there will be a wild deer alive within the borders of our state in three years. They are hunted, snared, trapped and destroyed in almost every way possible along our whole northern forest frontier the year round. Venison is openly bought and sold through the summer and early fall in nearly all the local markets on the Northern Pacific and St. Paul & Duluth roads, by both white men and Indians. The favorite method of the latter in Laanti county, in an area of about three square miles, 160 deer were known to have been killed last February and March by men and boys on snow shoes. One young savage only 15 years old distinguished himself by cutting the throats of nine on a single day. Guns were of no use, for the deer were so poor and spiritless and the snow so deep that a person could walk right up to them and the poor animal would stand and bleat pitifully as they were torn by dogs or beaten by clubs. Hundreds were destroyed in the northern part of Wadena county in the same season and by the same means, and so it goes all over the deer country. Those killed in February or later, of course are little or no good for venison, and it would seem that about the only object to kill them was to gratify a depraved bloodthirsty spirit of destruction.

It is time, and high time, that the civilized and law-abiding sentiment of this state called a halt to this un-sportsman-like and disgraceful slaughter. It is time that the citizen in our most lonely backwoods frontier should be made to feel that he is not "west of the law" (he is ready enough to revoke its protection when needed); he should be made to understand that there are two sides to his compact with society. Somehow the impression has got abroad among a great many that this state cannot constitutionally enforce any laws for the protection of its game. Our present game warden seems to be imbued with this idea, for although the game law is defied or ignored before their eyes, we have no account of their attempting to enforce it in the slightest degree; in fact in some of the counties people say that the warden themselves are guilty of gross infraction of the law. At the last session of our legislature it was said that the sportsmen of the state—notably the Brainerd club—were active in procuring legislation for the further protection of the game. Would it not be consistent if some activity were shown in enforcing those laws? Under the present administration they are worse than useless. While it is not intended to supply an unflattering remedy to these evils, perhaps a few suggestions may not be out of place:

First—Confine the Indian on his reservation, as off of it he is only a prowling beggar and an unmitigated nuisance. This is the universal testimony of the settler. Hitherto the efforts of the philanthropists to train and subvert him have been a few failures and squaw-men who want an opportunity to buy the Indians' berries and sell them whiskey.

Second—Stop "pot hunting," or hunting for the market. Limit each man or household to the killing of deer in a season. The good results following the enforcement of this might warrant in a few years the enlargement of this number. In Maine, where they have had such a law in operation and enforced, it has resulted in such an increase of the deer that now they are said to be more plenty there than they were 25 years ago. They were almost annihilated when the state took hold of the matter in earnest. Above all, appoint for game warden only those who are in sympathy with the methods of civilization, who have the desire and the courage to see that the law is strictly enforced; who are not afraid to go and send their deputies through the forest and find out what is going on. Memorial.

Castle Hall, White Cross Lodge No. 30, K. of P., Brainerd, Jan. 8th, 1889. Brother Knights: Again has death entered our castle hall and laid his cruel hands upon another of our beloved Knights. Just when the old year had risen up to lay aside his mantle and welcome in the new year, the dread messenger came and called from us forever our honored brother, Chas. B. Steep, and we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well. Our brother has gone, but his memory lives. He had many virtues, let us remember and cherish them. In the death of brother Steep this lodge and the order universal have lost an honored member, the city and commonwealth an esteemed citizen, the bar an able and conscientious lawyer, the judiciary an honest, upright and fearless judge, and the family a respected and loving husband and father. As a lodge, let us be reminded by this sad visitation that we too are but mortal and must soon follow in the footsteps of our beloved brother. May we all be ready when the summons comes.

To the family of the deceased brother this lodge extends its sincerest sympathy in the hour of their great affliction. May an unfaltering trust in God and a risen Christ, and the hope of the resurrection be their comfort and support.

The Master of Arms will see that this Castle Hall is appropriately draped, and the Keeper of Records and Seals will spread this memorial upon the records of the lodge, and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased brother, and also copies to the city press.

While the result may not be satisfactory to all, everybody will certainly be glad that it is over, as it was almost impossible to transact any business while the fight was in progress. There were three formal ballots taken in the caucus. Mr. Washburn being nominated on the third ballot. The first ballot showed Washburn in the lead, he having 58 votes, Mr. Sabins 46, Donnelly 15, and scattering 11. The second ballot Mr. Washburn lost two votes and Mr. Sabins gained nine. This fairly set the Sabins men wild, as they now considered his nomination certain. The next ballot however ended disastrously for them as Mr. Washburn gained six votes, enough to elect, and Mr. Sabins lost one. When the result was announced a scene of indescribable confusion ensued, and it was some time before Senator Beckman, who arose to move that the nomination be made unanimous, could be heard. The motion was carried, after which Mr. Washburn made a speech thanking the members for the honor conferred. Mr. Sabins also spoke, gracefully acquiescing in the action of the convention, and saying that he was too good a republican and too much of a man not to ratify the choice the convention had made.

At Washburn's Expense.
ST. PAUL, Jan. 18, 1889.

Brainerd was represented at the Merchants, in St. Paul, on Tuesday by a delegation whose expenses were defrayed by W. D. Washburn, an aspirant for U. S. senator. It seems that the gentleman desired to let the people know he had some friends in the City of the Pines, and accordingly he telegraphed C. H. Douglas to bring down a goodly crowd at his expense. The Brainerd boys know a good thing when they see it, and it did not take long to scare up forty who were willing to make a trip at the general's expense, democrats not being barred. The following is a partial list of those who accepted the invitation: Fred Abner, Frank Orson, Chas. Baker, Johnny Bean, C. Cross, H. Rosenblatt, Tom Sanborn, T. M. Reilly, J. Smith, John Murray, Jake Paine, Chas. Kinkole, John Bubar, Tom Reilly, Robt. Canighe, Jerome Kelleher, C. H. Douglas, G. H. Stratton, M. Cullen, Hugh Riddle, Ed. Mahan, C. E. Cole, J. M. Gray, Ed. Hawkins, Jas. Cullen, Max Shapiro and T. J. Hawkins. The boys enjoyed themselves highly, but a number were at a loss to get his money back until they were asked to assemble at room 2, and Representative R. C. Dunn was sent for. They then began to understand that they were expected to be heard on Mr. Dunn in Mr. Washburn's interest. The "bearing down" was done all right, but whether Mr. Dunn was convinced that the republican sentiment of Crow Wing county was voiced by the assemblage remains to be seen, at least he made no promises. It is stated that several of the democratic brothers who accompanied the delegation, were convinced after their conference with the representative, that they were Sabins men after all.

Second—Stop "pot hunting," or hunting for the market. Limit each man or household to the killing of deer in a season. The good results following the enforcement of this might warrant in a few years the enlargement of this number. In Maine, where they have had such a law in operation and enforced, it has resulted in such an increase of the deer that now they are said to be more plenty there than they were 25 years ago. They were almost annihilated when the state took hold of the matter in earnest. Above all, appoint for game wardens only those who are in sympathy with the methods of civilization, who have the desire and the courage to see that the law is strictly enforced; who are not afraid to go or send their deputies through the forest and find out what is going on. Make the office lucrative enough to fairly reward honest and efficient discharge of duty. This trifling expense would surely be borne cheerfully by all good citizens rather than see good laws dishonored and the state disgraced.

Let us hope that Governor-elect Merriam, with that energy and executive ability which his friends claim for him, will bestow a little attention to this matter and revolutionize the present state of affairs. In the northeast portion of the state is an immense forest covered area, capable of furnishing food and shelter for innumerable deer, moose, caribou and other game. The forbidding and sterile nature of the soil renders it impossible for the settler ever to make a permanent home in its fastnesses. The plain duty of the state is to exercise a little intelligent care over it and to suppress this provident and barbarous slaughter.

Interesting to Hunters.
The following communication appears in the Fergus Falls Journal and is well worth reading.

"To any man of ordinary observation, who has been hunting deer in northern Minnesota for the last few years, it must be apparent that the days of this noble game is about numbered in Minnesota. If the present practice prevails it is very doubtful if there will be a wild deer alive within the borders of our state in three years. They are hunted, snared, trapped and destroyed in almost every way possible along our whole northern forest frontier the year round. Venison is openly bought and sold through the summer and early fall in nearly all the local markets on the Northern Pacific and St. Paul & Duluth roads, by both white men and Indians. The favorite method of the latter in the summer is to kill the deer by "fire-hunting"—two Indians have been known to kill as many as twelve in a single night. At Maple Ridge in Isanti county, in an area of about three square miles, 160 deer were known to have been killed last February and March by men and boys on snow shoes. One young savage only 15 years old distinguished himself by cutting the throats of nine on a single day. Guns were of no use, for the deer were so poor and spiritless and the snow so deep that a person could walk right up to them and the poor animal would stand and bleat piteously as they were torn by dogs or beaten by clubs. Hundreds were destroyed in the northern part of Wadena county in the same season and by the same means, and it goes all over the deer country. Those killed in February or later, of course are little or no good for venison, and it would seem that about the only object to kill them was to gratify a depraved bloodthirsty spirit of destruction.

It is time, and high time, that the civilized and law-abiding sentiment of this state called a halt to this unsportsman-like and disgraceful slaughter. It is time that the citizen in our most lonely backwoods frontier should be made to feel that he is not "west of the law" (he is ready enough to revoke its protection when needed); he should be made to understand that there are two sides to his compact with society. Somehow the impression has got abroad among a great many that this state cannot constitutionally enforce any laws for the protection of its game. Our present game wardens seem to be imbued with this idea, for although the game law is defied or ignored before their eyes, we have no account of their attempting to enforce it in the slightest degree; in fact in some of the counties people say that the wardens themselves are guilty of gross infraction of the law. At the last session of our legislature it was said that the sportsmen of the state were not to be content if some activity were shown in enforcing those laws! Under the present administration they are worse than useless. While it is not intended to unduly praise the efforts of the game wardens, perhaps a few suggestions may not be out of place.

First—Confine the Indian on his reservation, as off of it he is only a prowling beggar and an unmitigated nuisance. This is the universal testimony of the settlers. Hitherto the efforts of the philanthropists to this end have been defeated by a few traders and squaw-men who want an opportunity to buy the Indians' berries and sell them whiskey.

Second—Stop "pot hunting," or hunting for the market. Limit each man or household to the killing of deer in a season. The good results following the enforcement of this might warrant in a few years the enlargement of this number. In Maine, where they have had such a law in operation and enforced, it has resulted in such an increase of the deer that now they are said to be more plenty there than they were 25 years ago. They were almost annihilated when the state took hold of the matter in earnest. Above all, appoint for game wardens only those who are in sympathy with the methods of civilization, who have the desire and the courage to see that the law is strictly enforced; who are not afraid to go or send their deputies through the forest and find out what is going on. Make the office lucrative enough to fairly reward honest and efficient discharge of duty. This trifling expense would surely be borne cheerfully by all good citizens rather than see good laws dishonored and the state disgraced.

Memorial.
Castle Hall, White Cross Lodge No. 30, K. of P., Brainerd, Jan. 8th, 1889.

Brother Knights: Again has death entered our castle hall and laid his cruel hands upon another of our beloved Knights. Just when the old year had risen up to lay aside his mantle and welcome in the new year, the dread messenger came and called from us forever our honored brother, Chauncey B. Sleeper, and we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well. Our brother has gone, but his memory lives. He had many virtues, let us remember and cherish them. In the death of brother Sleeper this lodge and the order universal have lost an honored member, the city and commonwealth an esteemed citizen, the bar an able and conscientious lawyer, the judiciary an honest, upright and fearless judge, and the family a respected and loving husband and father. As a lodge, let us be reminded by this sad visitation that we too are but mortal and must soon follow in the footsteps of our beloved brother. May we all be ready when the summons comes.

To the family of the deceased brother this lodge extends its sincerest sympathy in the hour of their great affliction. May an unfaltering trust in God and a risen Christ, and the hope of the resurrection be their comfort and support.

The Master at Arms will see that this Castle Hall is appropriately draped, and the Keeper of Records and Seals will spread this memorial upon the records of the lodge, and transmit a copy thereof to the family of the deceased brother, and also copies to the city press.
